

One Winter Day

One winter day in December Cathy woke up to the sound of her alarm clock going off. She very sleepily got out of bed. She walked over to the curtains and pulled them open. Just then to her surprise it was snowing!

She raced down stairs to her sister's room. But when she opened the door her sister was gone! She raced into the kitchen and looked out the window to find her sister already running, jumping and making snowmen in the snow.

She rushed down the hallway and dashed into the press to try and find her coat, hat, scarf and gloves. Finally she found them. She whizzed to the shelf to fetch her wellies.

Cathy raced outside to her sister and they both made a snowman together. After a while mum called them in for bed. They had a great day.
