

Should you have a real or artificial Christmas tree?

Dear Reader,

We know that decorating Christmas trees are fun. You can see them when you're in the shops
and in the streets.

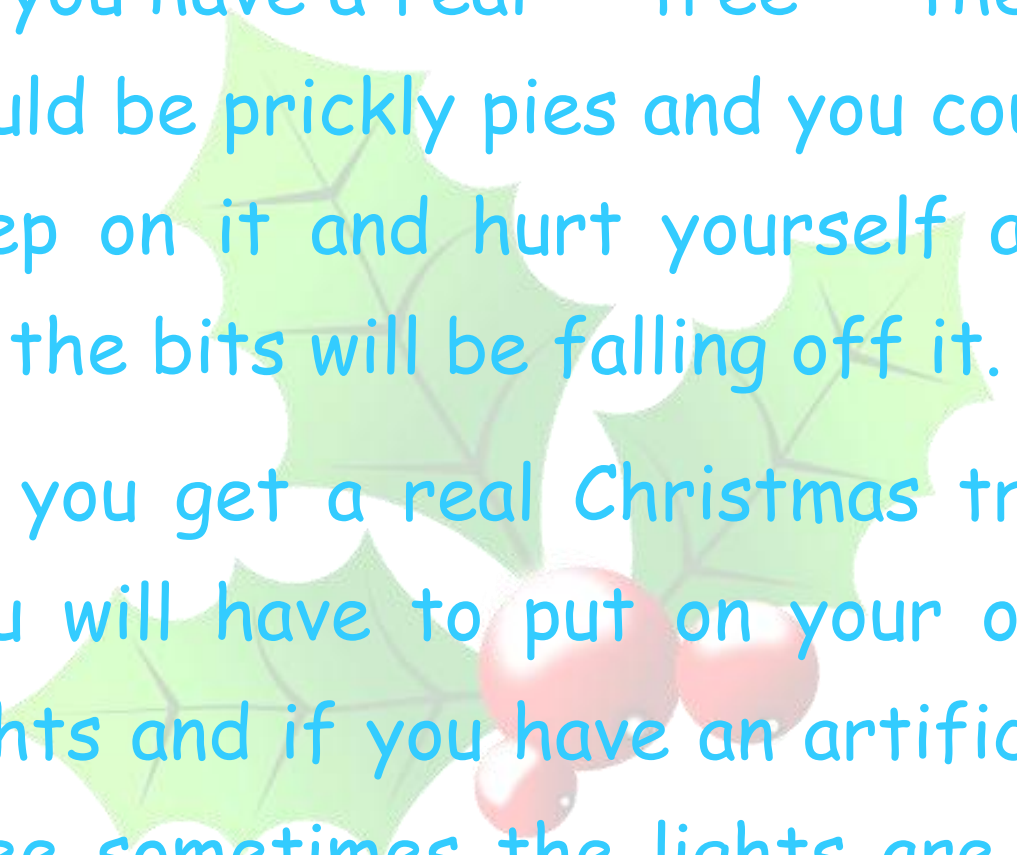

If you have a real Christmas tree
it will only last for about a year and you will have to pay the same amount of money again for a new one every year. Therefore an artificial tree will last you about three to ten years.

If you have a real tree there could be prickly bits and you could step on it and hurt yourself and all the bits will be falling off it.

If you get a real Christmas tree you will have to put on your own lights and if you have an artificial tree sometimes the lights are all ready on them.

An artificial Christmas tree you can get them in all different colours.

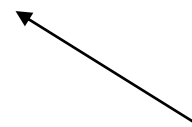

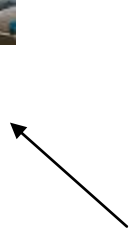

Clearly you should have an artificial tree because it last longer and if you keep buying real trees every year it will cost more money than an artificial tree.
